Dear Professor [Redacted]

Thank you for sending us your c.v. with your letter of September 10. I have passed copies to our National Intelligence Officer for Nuclear Proliferation and to an analytic office that focuses attention on such matters. You may well be hearing from one or both of them in the future. The fact that you have held a security clearance in the past is, of course, in your favor.

I was happy to receive your kind words on your session here at Langley. I took the liberty of passing a copy of your letter to [Redacted] If I can be of assistance to you in the future, please feel free to call on me.

Best regards,

Dear Mr. [REDACTED]

Thank you again for arranging our excellent session on verification issues in the SALT process. [REDACTED] was first-rate.

Enclosed you will find my c.v. You will note that most of my publishing and consulting efforts pertain to proliferation issues, but my teaching focus is much broader. I enjoy coming to D.C. to work on these matters, so if I can be of any assistance, please let me know. My last full field security clearance occurred in 1976, so I would probably have to have another before I could deal with classified matters.

I have also enclosed the piece I did on India. If you would like other samples of my work--including the materials I have produced for the NRC as a consultant--I can arrange to have them forwarded to you.

Best regards,
